

Job Announcement

Date : April 27, 2008

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Social Economy at Cardiff School of Management

We are seeking to appoint a social economist or heterodox economist to contribute to both the teaching and research aspects of our School.

The Cardiff School of Management has a strong profile, both nationally and internationally, in the fields of Management, Business, Computing, Tourism and Hospitality, together with proven standing with a range of relevant professional bodies. The School is now looking to recruit additional academic staff to maintain the pace of its development.

Applications are invited from candidates with a strong appetite and ability to embark immediately on a doctorate as a minimum for Lecturer level. An enthusiastic engagement with the discipline is essential, as is the ability and flexibility to teach across a range of modular options at all levels. The appointee will also be expected to be research active and an interest in the social economy or co-operative research is particularly welcome. The Wales Institute for Research into Co-operatives is located within the Cardiff School of Management and being qualified and enthusiastic about contributing to the research of this team would be an advantage.

Lecturer: £33,780 - £38,019

Senior Lecturer: £39,160 - £45,397

Closing date for receipt of applications: 2nd May 2008

More details of the post are available on the UWIC website.

There is also a forthcoming Research Assistant post within Wales Institute for Research into Co-operatives. For an informal chat about this post call Molly Scott Cato on 01453 764730.
