

From Anatomic collections to objects of Worship

Date : July 30, 2008

The Musee du Quai Branly in Paris hosted a series of round table discussions about the ethics of collecting and displaying human remains. Full text of the discussions in French and English can be found here.