

Semantic Webs

Date : December 26, 2008

Mark Ward, correspondent for BBC Technology News writes about the trials and tribulations of search engines for the world wide web. Metatomix builds a database known as a semantic ontology, which attempts to capture how all the different parts of an organisation understand a particular thing.

And CKelty on Savage Minds, highlights the development of a "browser for black people":

<http://savageminds.org/2008/12/17/let-freedom-ring-from-your-navigation-toolbar/>