

British Library warns UK's web heritage 'could be lost'

Date : February 27, 2010

The UK's online heritage could be lost forever if the government does not grant a "right to archive", a group of leading libraries has said.

That's a really interesting iteration of intellectual property rights on the world wide web....