

The Wesleyan Center for Humanities Podcast Series

Date : June 4, 2012

Contains a good number of conversations and talks about Material culture, including a talk by Wendy Bellion entitled "What statues remember: sculpture and affect in nineteenth century New York", by Elizabeth Povinelli called "The Dwelling Science: embodiment, obligation, knowledge." and by Fath Ruffins, "Do Objects have Ethnicities: Race and Material Culture."

The link to the full collection is here