

Culture and Property

Date : August 24, 2007

The journal Siberian Studies has an excellent online edition dedicated to a dissection of culture as/and property, focused regionally on the former USSR and close territories. Of particular note is a great article by Barbara Bodenhorn called, Is Being Inupiaq a form of cultural property?, as well as a discussion of shamanism and museum collections by Thomas Miller, and writing on Russian Museums (Julia Kupina) and Repatriation in Alaska (Sonia Lührmann). Follow the link: www.siberian-studies.org/publications/cultprop.html