

The Anne Frank Tree

Date : October 4, 2007

Today it was announced:

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/7027533.stm>

that plans have been set in motion to preserve the Chesnut Tree that Anne Frank sought solace from during her confinement in hiding during World War Two. The tree has become an important materialisation of Anne herself...and a way of thinking through poetically, the emotional aspect of her hiding...

Check out the website for the Anne Frank Tree, an interactive digital memorial to which you can add your own leaves to:

<http://www.annefranktree.nl/index.aspx?lang=en>

Part of the Anne Frank House website where there is also a webcam from which you can view the tree live, out of the same window that Anne did.