

On collectors, collections and financial obligations....

Date : September 20, 2008

The Jolika Collection, promised to the De Young Museum by collectors John and Marcia Friede has also been put up as collateral in a feud over the family's inheritance. The ownership status of the collection is now in question. Read the story here